As a Ham Radio operator (AI4U), I feel that, at the least, the 5 WPM code test should be retained in licensing. Some say that because morse code is out-dated it should be eliminated. I believe the opposite is true. Retain at least a 5 WPM code test for licensing and allow the person to decide (after testing and passing) if they wish to continue with Morse Code. As stated by others, Morse Code is an art form, and Ham Radio was founded on code so it should remain as a tool to be learned and used by future operators.
